Focus of the week: Daily Reading

All children from nursery through to Year 6 need to read each day to improve their reading skills.

In school children get daily lessons in reading and also chance to practise their independent reading skills. The children who make the most progress are the children who also practise their reading at home, especially when they are supported in their reading practice by a grown up.

Why not build a routine at home to include a daily reading time. It's a great way to put away screens and so promote good sleep. Sometimes, despite our best intentions, good habits get lost. Considering how to encourage our young and older readers is a great focus. Whether it is library trips or family reading time, the potential is limitless.

Reach for the Stars

This year we are looking to give each class a name of its own. We would also like to give names to specific doors and corridors in school. We'd like these to match the Crosslee 'Reach for the Stars' mission statement. Please share your suggestions for each set of names using the google form below. We'll collect the best suggestions and then set up a vote very soon.

Thank you in advance

Headteacher's Comment

I've really enjoyed the Year 6 enterprise mini topic this week. The children created and delivered great business pitches in order to get their £5 grant. The buzz around the school today as children visited their stalls was lovely! We certainly have some budding business men and women of the future. All funds go towards the Y6 Ghyllhead trip - what a worthy cause! Well done Year 6.
